Questions to Planner Rachel Suffern

Chair Kluge asked if Milton is going to look at covered porches not being included as livable spaces as it is opened on three sides. Planner Suffern stated she believes the intent especially during a mature character study was to accommodate additional run off from any covered area. She also noted within certain zones within the mature neighbourhood area there is an additional allocation for porches, so it is somewhat considered that it might not trigger a variance if it can be caught in that additional allocation.
